

A Student from London Completing Midwifery Internship in LHCBS

Miss Fiona Taylor –

A student of Florence Nightingale Faculty of Nursing and Midwifery, King's College London recently completed her midwifery internship from Lutheran Health Care Bangladesh (LHCBS), Sreerampur Dumki, Patuakhali, Bangladesh. She had been there from 17th - 29th August, 2015 and was under Dr. Justine Baozandry supervision. She was niece of our Admin and public Relation officer through whom she came to know about LHCBS and shown her interest of internship here.

Her major learning during the stay in Dumki includes antenatal clinic; out-patient clinic; inpatient women and child ward; mother and baby vaccination program, laboratory testing; intrapartum care including caesarean section delivery and postnatal care.

According to Ms. Fiona this being a rich learning experience for her and a chance to explore healthcare service in Bangladesh especially in geographically remote places. She also learned how physical, social, economical and environmental factors influenced healthcare service in Bangladesh. From marketing perspective this also a good opportunity for LHCBS to show the world how they are empowering lives through Nobel service.

Our Executive Director with other LHCBS Staff praying for Fiona on her leaving

Group photo in middle Ms. Fiona Taylor surrounded by LHCBS staff members